Market Commentary

Politics dominated headlines in June – from a snap election in France to the concerning performance by Joe Biden in the televised US Presidential debate. While political noise had little material impact on markets overall, French markets were volatile due to the uncertainty surrounding the lack of a majority in government and potential knock-on effects. In India, despite expectations of a landslide victory for incumbent Prime Minister Modi, he was sworn in for a third consecutive term with a much smaller majority.

Central bankers acted in line with economist expectations. The European Central Bank took the first step in cutting interest rates, shaving 0.25% off its main deposit rate. The Bank of England (BoE) and Federal Reserve held rates at current levels, with policymakers calling for a clearer picture from incoming economic data before taking action. On a positive note, May's UK inflation figures were encouraging, with Consumer Price Index (CPI) inflation slowing to the Bank's 2% target. However, wage growth remained hot at 5.9% and will need to cool before the BoE considers bringing rates down.

China showed signs of a pickup in activity, driven by the services sector and an increase in stimulus measures to offset the property market slump. In May, the services sector Purchasing Managers' Index survey for sentiment within services sectors was the highest reading since July 2023. Technology momentum continued to drive markets, particularly India, but also the US, with many companies still benefitting from artificial intelligence momentum.

This Month's Activity

Equity market performance was mixed in June, with Emerging Markets and the US posting strong gains, whereas European markets struggled, in part due to unexpected political uncertainty in France. Our fixed income holdings posted gains across the board, as investors sought to lock-in fixed income investments while yields remained high.

We made changes to our portfolio solutions to prepare for impending interest rate cuts in the UK and US. We increased our exposure to small and medium-sized UK companies, as well as global infrastructure and property assets, all of which should benefit as lending rates start to fall. We also reduced our holdings of short-term cash deposit funds in favour of marginally longer-dated corporate bonds, as the yields available on cash are expected to fall.

HOW GIVING SHAREHOLDERS A 'SAY ON PAY' IS IN COMPANIES BEST INTEREST

'Say on Pay' refers to the right of shareholders in a company to vote on executive compensation packages. It has been a key part of shareholder protests for several years, and typically dominates discussions on executive remuneration. Before the introduction of Say on Pay legislation, investors were largely powerless to act on company executives being overpaid, irrespective of their performance, or to prevent remuneration being misaligned to the company's best interests. One of the passive equity fund managers we invest in, which manages considerable capital, leads the Say on Pay charge for its investors.

The fund manager recently raised concerns over certain remuneration practices in one of the largest car rental companies based in the US, including easily achievable price targets for its new CEO, and the structure of performance awards. The investment team participated in the company's Annual General Meeting (AGM) in May 2023, where the agenda included a Say on Pay proposal. Using its significant capital and contacts through the industry, the fund manager did not support the proposal and received 85.5% support from investors, clearly reflecting shareholder concern about the company's approach. This kind of activity makes executives more accountable for underperformance and, more importantly, ensures shareholders receive fair long-term returns through more prudent capital management.
