- (2) MSCI World Index in Sterling, net dividends reinvested, priced at close of business US time, source: MSCI Inc. The MSCI World Index is a generic portfolio of global equities across all sectors and, as such, is a fair comparison given the Fund is also global and sector agnostic.

- (5) A (retail) class AMC 0.9% / I (institutional) class AMC 0.7%. (I-class for sums over £1m or at manager's discretion).
- (6) This figure will reduce if the fund increases in size: £30,000 of fixed costs over £10m = 0.30% but only 0.03% over £100m, for example.
- (7) The fund normally only buys and sells positions once a month to keep trading costs as low as possible.

Monthly Commentary (June 2024)

During July the Global Multi Asset Fund appreciated by 0.46%. This compared with 0.15% for global equities.

There were neither purchases nor sales transactions during the month, and at the month end the fund was still almost fully invested.

Speculation continued in the US about the prospect of interest rate cuts, not least given a weaker than expected consumer price index. The UK stock market performed strongly given that the UK is now perceived as being far more politically stable. Commodities were weak during the month and oil retreated by 4% on the back of subdued demand from China in particular.

Market developments in early August after the end of the review period were noteworthy. On August 5th there was an unprecedented spike in the VIX (volatility index) with a sell-off on Wall Street, followed by all major markets, and in particular Japan. By the end of the week markets had recovered.

Economists were quick to offer post hoc explanations: weaker than expected US job creation presaged a recession, rising Japanese interest rates marked the end of the "carry trade" whereby cheap Yen borrowings could finance the purchase of other assets, or the famous seven US tech stocks were overbought and investors unwound leveraged positions largely through ETFs. Markets are now too opaque for such rationalisations. Over half of global investment is now passive, between 60% and 75% of developed equity market investment decisions are now algorithmic and often implemented through high frequency trading. It is even suggested that the VIX gave a false reading.

The Global Multi Asset Fund follows market trends and does not attempt to offer economic causation for market moves.

Key Risks

- Counterparty risk: The Fund can conclude various transactions with contractual partners. If a contractual partner becomes insolvent, it can no longer or can only partly settle unpaid debts owed to the Fund.
 - Market Risk: External factors can cause an entire asset class to decline in value which would result in a decrease in the value of investments. The Fund aims to mitigate this risk by investing in all major asset classes in many geographic regions and owning assets which are often negatively correlated.
 - Concentration Risk: The Fund seeks to minimise concentration risk by owning
- a wide selection of Exchange Traded Funds which themselves own many hundreds of underlying assets.
- Liquidity Risk: adverse market conditions may affect the ability to sell certain assets when necessary. The Fund invests nearly exclusively in large, liquid ETFs so liquidity risk should be significantly lower than in a more conventional actively managed fund investing in single assets.
